
THE DARLALORIAN

CHAPTER 4: GUNFIGHT AT THE F.U. CORRAL

Unable to pay for spaceship repairs and leave Katpoopee, The Darlalian and the Puppy Child head to the desert oasis mineral water town of Mos Pellegrino. The local lawman Marshal Slob has offered bounty money for anyone who can rid them of an outer space outlaw named Zeno. With the cash in hand, they could escape the planet.

They meet up with the marshal at a filthy saloon in town called The Germ. The Darlalian agrees to back the marshal's play against the black-clad outlaw in the dusty street outside the bar at a place called the F.U. Corral. They leave The Puppy Child in the care of a space hooker named Trixie and head out.

As they reach the center of the avenue, the dastardly outlaw Zeno shoots at them from cover. They return deadly fire, not only gunning down Zeno, but injuring a man, who looked exactly like the gunman who writhed on the ground screaming, "OH, THE PAIN! THE PAIN!"

However, before the fight is over, bloodthirsty bounty hunter Boba Fett kidnaps the Puppy Child on the orders of criminal canine kingpin Ernie the Mutt. He escapes the planet soon after. The Darlalian sets out in pursuit.

